Introduction to the Creative Potential Natal Report

The Earth-centered chart has been the standard in astrological interpretation since the beginning. Your horoscope addresses every area of your personal life: it describes your personality and character, your work, love life, family, children, financial affairs, education, friends, social status, and private life. It reflects tendencies in health and creativity as well as travel and religion. Whatever question you may have, an astrologer can find some answers in the geocentric chart. Some factors in the report depend on an accurate birth time. If you don't know your birth time, then any interpretations relating to houses have less accuracy.

Introduction to Signs

The signs provide the background for the movement of planets and moons. From our point of view, they provide twelve filters for the light of the planets and moons and modify or focus those energies.

Introduction to Degree Divisions of Signs

Each sign of the zodiac may be divided into equal segments, and each segment describes something of the nature of the planet in that part of the sign. The Quad divides the sign into four equal parts. This placement identifies key traits of the planet that focus on your worldview in terms of personal, family, community and humanitarian issues. Decanates are three segments of ten degrees each. These divisions speak to the mental expression of energy, just as the signs themselves express most directly on the physical plane. Dwads divide the sign into twelve segments, and these segments suggest a developmental quality of the planet as it expresses emotional and spiritual facets of your personality. Degree divisions refine the above considerations even further.

Your interpretation provides keys and interpretations for the quad, decanate and dwad divisions. The key for each degree indicates a fundamental factor at play for the planet and the natural direction that energy moves.

Introduction to Aspects

An aspect is the angular relationship between two points in a chart. Different aspects indicate different influences between the planets. Thus one person with the Sun in square aspect to Jupiter will have a very different energetic experience from a person with the Sun trine to Jupiter.

Introduction to Key Phrases

As a human being, intelligent activity is your birthright. It is demonstrated through creativity; this reading will consider your own creative potential and processes. The keywords and upper harmonic moons and asteroids throughout the report come from SELF EVIDENT ASTROLOGY(tm). The upper harmonics reveal multiple possibilities for the potential contained in the planet's energies.

You may notice repeated text in your report: it indicates an area of your life that is in high focus. The planets or upper harmonics involved reflect the specific qualities you can develop and use in that area of life.

Sun Introduction

THE LIGHTS: SUN AND MOON

A key to understanding the Sun and Moon is to remember that human beings, by nature of their physical existence, polarize all experience. What does this mean? To hear, you must be able to interpret variations in sound waves. To see, you must be able to interpret shades of color amid light and dark. To feel heat/cold, hard/soft, or light/heavy, you must be able to discern differences. Because you perceive dualities through your own personal filters, you will never perceive a situation or thing exactly the way someone else perceives it. However, you do have internal consistency where perceptions are concerned.

Even though you know that the Sun is immense in size, when you look at the sky, the Moon appears to be the same size. The Sun and Moon reflect equal parts of your experience. The Sun reflects the conscious center of the psyche—the primary focal point of your ambition and life mission. The Moon tells you about your less conscious side. Your most pressing agendas in life arise from the unconscious mind. Often unbidden, sometimes unwanted, these urges drive you forward in life. On the positive side, the inner voice is always with you, it never deserts you, and it continues to speak, even when you don't listen. But when you do listen, there is a wealth of encouragement and guidance at your disposal.

The Sun

The Sun represents the direction of your personal mission and spiritual path. The Sun is the source of life, and as such it is one of the most powerful point in the chart. The Sun's placement provides a focus for the conscious experience of your energy. Your Sun sign shows the direction of your energy -- the thrust of your individuality. The house shows where you will exert your energy and where vitality will express most naturally.

Sun in Gemini

The Sun in Gemini speaks to the experience of duality in the physical world. We learn to see both sides of everything around us. At the physical level this experience is if night and day, large and small, inner and outer, Self and Other. The Sun here indicates our understanding of the world through polarity, as well as our longing for the harmony of Unity.

The ability to manipulate the environment grows out of the connection to life. As we connect to objects in our environment, for example, we learn how to use them to satisfy our needs and desires. We experiment with the physical world and learn how to move in it. The Sun in Gemini relates the planetary energy to movement, to communication, to basic relationships that affect our ability to adapt to the environment.

SUMMARY

Now that you have seen your birth report, you are probably somewhat stunned by the variety and number of astrological indicators you can consider. To help you get a grasp of the overall picture, we have included the following information that gathers together the main factors in your chart.

You may have perceived repeated themes in the interpretations of planets in signs, decanates, quads, dwads and aspects as you read your interpretation. The emphasis on certain themes in your life is reflected in the repetitions in your interpretation.

Decanate 1

Life, for you, is filled with the dynamic excitement of beginning new activities. You probably recognize the importance of continuation and completion, but they do not provide the intense charge that you get from staring out on a new adventure. In fact, when you can, you leave the other two possibilities for those who follow.

As you go back and read about the decanate placements in your chart, notice which kinds of energy are best suited for your many fresh starts, and also consider which energies help you to follow through and complete important work.

Life, for you, is all about results. You get the most satisfaction when you finish things. You like the end game where all the pieces come together. While you can come up with ideas, get things started, and do the work, you relish the moment of completion, and even the moment after completion, when you get to see how your results play out with other people.

As you go back and read about the decanate placements in your chart, notice which kinds of energy are best suited to finishing work or play tasks, and also consider which energies help you to come up with ideas for new projects or to persist in the work so you can have the glorious conclusions you so desire.

Quad 3

Your life focuses on the larger community around you. You love to intermingle with other people at work, in social settings, or through recreational activities. You thrive in contact with other people. You can still have a home to return to and family to embrace you. You do find, though, that the excitement is in the transformations brought about in community activities.

Each time you read about a planet in Quad 3, you see the desires and contentment to be found in community activities and interests. Planets in other quads tell about other facets of your life that add sparkle to your intense focus on partnership, career, and all activities that demand independence.

Dwad 7

With many planets in degrees 15 to 17 1/2, you seek balance. No longer focused on the precision of your own plans, you also consider the exterior environment and the people in it. Your desire is to maintain balance even in the process of change. No easy task sometimes, you often manage to achieve just that.

Element Air

With an abundance of planets in air signs, you make good use of your intelligence. You are mentally alert and skilled in communication. Generally diplomatic, you occasionally go off on a tangent, leaving others to wonder what you may be thinking! You relish educational activities and may become a good teacher as well as student. You could become a powerful motivational speaker, and your style makes you a good team leader as well.

Mode Mutable

With an abundance of planets in mutable, or changeable signs, you generally display a degree of flexibility. You are open to suggestion and can change your tune quickly, but you actually are not a push over at all. Adaptability does not mean that you give in to others! It means you choose to go along. Sometimes you seem flighty or scattered. Inwardly you recognize your desire to have many friendships.

Aspect Elements Earth & Water

In your chart you have more aspects connecting Earth and water signs.

Earth energy concentrates by binding force and solidifying energy so we may perceive it through ordinary senses. Water provides a vehicle for the nurturing minerals and other materials that feed all growing things (including crystal formations and other deposits not ordinarily considered to be alive). The combination of earth and water signs in an aspect indicates conditions that focus your attention on the relationship of substance and growth.

Your mind is capable of focusing analytically to evaluate changes in the emotional atmosphere of a situation. Water flows swiftly over steep mountain slopes and more slowly over the plains. Similarly, the mind is capable of taking in information and responding quickly or slowly, based on the demands of a situation.

Planets aspecting each other from water to earth signs indicate conditions in which you make judgments based directly on information from the physical senses. You can develop skill in this process through practice and experiment, evaluating results on the basis of outward conditions or internal shifts. This is the alchemical process of re-solidifying in order to evaluate results.

The alchemical earth / water process involves dissolving matter in order to purify it and then re-solidifying to evaluate the effectiveness of the process. The willingness to undergo such change is like the willingness of the acorn to draw nourishment from the earth to become an oak, or the willingness of an infant to draw nourishment from the mother in order to manifest more fully as an individual.

Aspect Elements Air & Water

In your chart you have more aspects connecting Air and water signs.

Planets in relationships involving air and water put you in touch with the world through the melding of thought and feeling. You know this process through your immediate experience of the world. Water evaporates into air to form of steam. Rain condenses out of air, providing water to nourish the land. Similarly, movement occurs relatively easily between the intellect and the feeling components of your personality.

You have a desire to know. Ideas (air) are linked directly to feelings (water). The more you can entertain these together, the easier it is to balance thought with judgment. Perceptions and intuition become more compatible through such an aspect. The power of this relationship is seen in the thunderstorm. Lightning is the result of air and water in turbulent relationship. The power is also evident in the still surface of a lake - water and air meeting in a calm, still, natural way. Thoughts and feelings sometimes are turbulent and angry; they can also be related closely so that logic and intuition become part of one dynamic system of mental activity.

You can use air / water energy in two ways. You can have ideas first and then decide how we feel about them. You can also have strong feelings first and then think about them, clarifying how those feelings express our true nature. You can employ both styles in your daily activities, thereby enriching our choices.

Aspect square

When an abundance of squares, you find that you face challenges and obstacles in very direct ways. You learn your interactive style from family, teachers and peers, but you face challenges alone. At least you feel alone. Actually, you bring all your family and cultural wisdom to bear in each situation, and you achieve success largely because of the strength of family and history.
